The city auditorium when employer and employer met in a common cause to reduce working hours, raise wages and salaries and increase the buying power of the country.

Inspired by the whole-hearted acceptance of the NRA program, campaign workers prepared to start an educational drive to inform various tradesmen of the manner in which they will operate under the new code. Meetings are planned for next week and very question which might be asked by an employer seeking to cooperate in the national program will be answered, according to W. R. pretation of Law.

By the Associated Press. The wings of the blue eagle spread farther over the nation yesterday as the drive of the NRA machinery continued at full speed in Washington while groups in widely scattered sections of the land moved to come under the emblem.

In the national capital Hugh S. Johnson, industrial recovery chieftain, disclosed that his organization intended to bring pressure upon em-ployers not generally reachable by federal law to agree to wage and hour

The The administration inferred to newspapermen that "this blue eagle business," through the power of pub-lic opinion, would be effective against businesses confined entirely within the lines of one state and thus not ordinarily within the scope of federal law. In Chicago 200 business leaders joined in a drive to obtain recruits for the NRA. Under the leadership of the Association of Commerce there, the businessmen planned to map plans for a drive against unemployment. The blue eagle of the NRA was revealed today by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, as a high pressure bird intended to bring within the scope of wage and hour agreements employers not reachable by Gedral law.

Touching at his press conference upon one of the first obstacles laid before him—the question of whather strictly intra-state businesses (those confined to one state) could be compelled to adopt codes—Johnson said:

But, the administrator added, "the situation that has been created by this blue eagle business is something clse," leaving the inference that where the law could not prevail, public opinion against those not showing the NRA insignia would be effective.

Solution Pushed.

This solution of the problem of reaching every employer in the land with the intent of forcing higher wages and greater employment through shortened working hours was pushed to the fore by the administrator as four additional industries were granted permission by him to qualify for the blue eagle under modified presidential re-employment agreements.

They were the drug, cheese, boot and shoe, and cotton batting industries, employing scores of thousands of workers. More than 40 groups of employers providing jobs for millions

2 "WIDOWS" WEEP AT FUNERAL RITES OF CAPTAIN DEEDS

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11 .- (AP)-Two women, each of whom claims to be the lawful widow of Captain to be the lawful widow of Captain Ed F. M. Deeds, wept today through the funeral of the war-time flier who died in an airplane crash in China. Mrs. Betty Deeds, who married Deeds in 1925 and lived with him seven years in Hollywood, did not renew her argument with Mrs. Marie Hennessy Shirley Deeds over their claims. Mrs. Marie Deeds insists she married the aviator in China four days before hir death. The aviator's first wife yesterday unsuccessfully sought the arrest of her rival after both voiced their feelings upon the arrival of the flier's body here.

3 LABOR ORGANIZERS ESCORTED' FROM TOWN

CORINTH, Miss., Aug. 11.—(P)—
Three organizers of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, who have been active here among employes of the Weaver Pants Company, were escorted to the Tennessee line today by an undetermined number of men in the automobiles. automobiles.

The three were Harry Morse, Al Lehman and James Porter.

For Tennessee Valley Plan

William A. Sutherland, widely known Atlanta lawyer, Friday was named solicitor for the Tennessee Valley Authority and will supervise the legal activities of that group. Mr. Sutherland already has begun on his new duties.

Mr. Sutherland said upon receiving official notice of his appointment that he probably would spend much of his time in Knoxville and Washington, but announced that he would continue to maintain his Atlanta offices and the work would be carried on by the firm of Sutherland, Tuttle & Brennan, of which he is a member.

Mr. Sutherland in 36 years old, married and the father of three daughters. The family lives at 28 Brighton road. He is a graduate of the Harvard Law school, where he studied under Professor Felix Frankfurter, one of President Roosevelt's closest advisers. The Atlantan is a member of the Lawyers' Club, the Piedmont Driving Club, the Atlanta, Georgia and Amerciuo, the Aranta, Georgia and American Bar associations, and is a director and treasurer of the Family Welfare Society. He has been engaged in general practice here and is well known all over the south.

New Type of Anthrax Immunity Found at Cincinnati University

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor.
CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.—Anthrax, the scourge which has swept the world since first reported in the Bible as the "murrain" of Exodus, may lose its last terrors for many in a new type of immunity discovered at the University of Cincinnati.

The first authors immunities was a complete to the germ which caused the disease. This immunities whatever would not been immunized with the sheep corpuscles.

This experiment tops some recent discoveries by several scientists in a new field of disease immunization. Heretofore, like the Pasteur anthrax bacilli, most immunity has come from the germ which caused the disease.

its last terrors for many in a new type of immunity discovered at the University of Cincinnati.

The first anthrax immunizer was made by Pasteur in 1880, from anthrax bacteria. The new Cincinnati antidote is taken from much less dangerous sources, which have no apparent connection with anthrax. It was developed by Dr. George E. Rockwell, of the department of bacteriology and hygiene, college of medicine.

The new immunizer is the red corpuscles of sheep, boiled in water. Dr. Rockwell injected some of these boiled corpuscles into the bodies of rabbits, intraperitoneally. After two weeks he inoculated these rabbits with virulent anthrax bacilli. The animals

Atlantans See Shower of Meteors, Traveling 40 Miles Per Second

Traveling at a speed of 40-milesper-second, hundreds of flaming, falling meteors were visible to Atlantans Friday night as the earth made its annual August invasion into the Perseid orbit.

Those interested in astronomical spectacles remained at their posts all night to witness the display of fire and brimstone which is a meteor streaming across the sky. The shower was at its heaviest at approximately midnight and continued until dawn.

F. B. Eason, state director of the American Meteor Society, reported that 552 meteors were sighted by his observing party Thursday night and that even more would be seen Friday. They will also be visible again to-night. The Perseids travel at 40 miles pe second during the time they can be seen on earth, but at the peak of the orbit around the sun, which takes 125 years to complete, they decrease in speed slightly. The speed is in-creased again when they near the gravitational field of the sun. Faster traveling meteors are know

Fires All Night at Phantom Form By E. D. FALES JR. SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 11. (AP)—At first Nick Dentz, 87, the caretaker, thought it was a twig, scratching against the rain-swept window of the big house in the dark, a twig swayed by the wind. He lighted his pipe and went on reading. He lighted his pipe and went on reading. A door rattled. Nick put down his book and listened. Then a scratching at another window. He put out the light and peered into the blackness. Nothing. No sound in the big house. A bony hand appeared at the window, then slowly a face rose above the sill, eyes blinking in the light. A diabolical face, lips contorted. A shot crashed out from Nick's rife, through the glass window. Hours passed. The James estate is isolated, its owners away for the summer, and no one heard the shots that blazed from the broken window all night as the old man, frantic with fear, fired. This afternoon he crept to a phone, startled a neighbor two miles away house. the light and peered into the blackness. Nothing. No sound in the big house.

"Getting a little jumpy, aren't you Nick?" he mused to himself, turning on the light.

Then the scratching sound at the first window again. A moan, rising to high pitch and ending in an excited jabber. Nick's hair stood on end. He dropped his pipe, seized a rifle and waited.

This afternoon he crept to a phone, startled a neighbor two miles away with his frantic summons. Sheriff Carroll Gardner sent his deputies.

They found Nick Dentz shaking with fright, empty cartridges on the floor. "I shot it," he broke out. "It tried to get in." Outside, in the garden by the window, lay a furred body. "Either a chimpanzee or a baboon," said Sheriff Gardner. "A bullet went through its head."

Havana a Nightmare to U.S. Girl, Says People Expect Intervention

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Aug. 11.

(P)—Life in Cu a now was described as a nightmare with citizens in terror and people starving in the streets of Havana in a letter from Miss Gillie Howell, Spartanburg girl, to her sister.

Miss Mattie Hoyce Howell, high school teacher here.

Miss Howell went to Cuba in 1920 as private secretary to General Enoch Crowder, sent there to supervise the national election. When he returned to the States, she remained and is now secretary-treasurer of the Manuel A. Saurezy Cia, wholesale tobacco dealers.

Her letter, dated August 7, said

Her letter, dated August 7, said in part:

"Well, the last few days have been nightmares here in Cuba—a two-fold one for me. As you know we have been having a strike here for over a week and it has been growing bigger, until now there is no food—no stores open—no street cars—no automobiles—fights on every street corner—private cars are turned over—no asoline sold—no mail delivery—the most awful experiences.

"Early Friday morning as I was dressing and washing before the lavatory it suddenly gave way and fell. It struck my foot and as I looked down the blood was spurting in every direction. It was a horrible looking thing. I put antiseptic on it and tried to stop the flow of blood and bound it. I had to walk down one flight of stairs to the elevator. There I told the boy that the water was running out of the pipe like a fountain and asked him to get a doctor.

"He cut off the water, but made no effort to get a doctor. I then returned to the second floor to telephone a physician, but there were no answers as they are on strike, too.

"There were no cars to take me to the hospital. Finally I got the office and they saic they would send a car, but in the meantime a boy in the house got his car out (which he had "The office car brought me out to the house of a friend, who lives seven miles out.

"I had to wait two days before 1 could get a doctor—got one who lives across the street. He was in jail all day Saturday. They jailed doctors to keep them from visiting people. My wound is healing beautifully—no complications at all."

"We are expecting intervention," the letter continues, "they say there are four warships just outside the harbor. Italian Flyer Regains Upside-Down Record

Upside-Down Record

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(P)—
Flying with his landing gear turned skyward, Lieutenant Tito Falconi; Italian Royal Air Force officer, regained his up-side-down flight record today, only 24 hours after he had lost it to Milo G. Burcham, 30-year-old Long Beach (Cal.) aviation instructor.

Falconi flew in an inverted position today for 2 hours, 8 minutes, 54 seconds, making a round trip to Santa Barbara, about 200 miles. This is 21 minutes, 55 seconds better than the new record set yesterday by Burcham, and nearly an hour and two minutes better than Falconi's record which Burcham broke.

On the Air Today

Gertrude Niesen, exotic personality of song, will highlight the jazz classic, "Some of These Days," during her pro-gram to be broadcast over WGST and the Columbia chain from 7:45 to 8 o'clock tonight.

The first of a series of weekly exchange programs from Montreal, Canada, entitled "Singing Strings," will be broadcast over WGST and the Columbia network from 8:30 to 9 o'clock

The highly individualistic Fourth Symphony of Johannes Brahms will be featured by Hans Kindler, directing the Philadelphia Summer Concerts Orchestra in the broadcast direct from Robin Hood Dell, from 6:30 to 7:15 o'clock tonight, over WGST and the Columbia network. In the simplicity of its themes, the originality of its development, and the subjective character of its ideas, the symphony is the most typically Brahmsian of all the German master's larger works.

An all-Russian program will be pre-sented by the Madison ensemble under the direction of Vincent Sorey from 11:30 to 12 o'clock today over WGST and the Columbia network. Composers represented will be Borodin, Liadoff, Cui, Glazounoff, and Tschaikovsky.

Mark Warnow will conduct his nov elty orchestra in program of symphonic jazz stressing unusual combinations of instruments in ensemble and sole arrangements from 1:30 to 2 o'clock this afternoon over the WABC-Columbia network and WGST.

Havana a Muted Drumhead, Beaten Soundlessly by Fear

Ability To Get Bread Is SocialDistinctionAmong Americans, Says Observer Describing 'Economic Siege.'

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER.

HAVANA, Aug. 11 .- (By Wire less) -This city is in the strangest siege ever seen. A new kind of war-hours. The city is a muted drum-head, beaten soundlessly with fear Besiegers walk idly about among the police, who are the besieged. Their arms and munitions are idle in this war of strikes and passive resistance.

The man who opens his shop knows public opinion's third degree. No cars run past the closed shops or past the houses where people remain idle indoors, for only a few of the more adwenturous stroll in areas unrestricted by martial law. Police may force the opening of a shop, but when the police go fear closes it again. No taxis are available at any price. Priate cars may run, if they can get asoline. The whispered rumors when o newspapers are published intensify uncannily the alert apprehension Patrolling police, eyeing sharply every open window and door for a possible sniping shot, take swift ven-geance for any active resistance and

A. This is covered by interpretation No. 1 concerning paragraph 7 of the president's re-employment agreement. Paragraph 7 means, first, that compensation of em-ployes above the minimum wage group shall not be reduced group shall not be reduced either to compensate employers for increases that he may be required to make in the minimum wage group in order to comply with the agreement, or to turn this re-employment agreement into a share-the-work movement without a resulting increase of total purchasing power. News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

YELPS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The woives of Wall Street are beginning to plant poison on the administration recovery program. One of the largest brokerage houses is circulating a private letter to its clients suggesting the NRA is causing unemployment. This letter asserts the confusion caused by the high wage drive is hurting rather than helping business generally.

Mr. Roosevelt keeps himself closely informed about such subrosa activities. Apparently he found out about this letter before it was in the mails.

are there any authentic August indices on buying power. The government collects such figures once a month. Their estimates are entirely trustworthy. Weekly statistics are issued by certain Wall Street statisticians. These cannot always be trusted. Real economists pay no attention to them.

GAP LESSENED. Mr. Roosevelt based his optimism on charts by Professor Warren. The charts were written from July reports. They show everything Mr. Roosevelt set forth in his announcement. Improvement was noted all along the line in July.

Industrial production was still considerably out of line with em

Automobile production dropped rather sharply this week.

The big question is whether this moderation is being accompanied by curtailed employment and diminished purchasing power, if the NRA is working, these tendencies should not worry anyone. They mean production is slackening so employment and wages can catch up. If the NRA is NOT bringing re-employment, the hints are serious.

No one can find out until the month is over and good figures are available.

GUR-R! The walls of the NRA building bulged a few days back when the legal experts began impersonating wild lions and tigers. LIMESTONE MEN PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(P)—
Quarries and fabricators of limestone will meet Wednesday in Chicago to consider steps to amend their code of competition to conform with a virtual decision of representatives of the entire stone industry to follow in principle the general construction code.

Robert H. Winn, attorney for the Indiana limestone industry in preparation of its code, will preside at the Chicago meeting, which will include representative of Alabama and other limestone industries.

It is the story of a wrecker who builds his life bit by bit, only to have it torn down by two people in whom he had put his faith. And then from the wreckage, he rebuilds. Jack Holt is the wrecker, and handles his part well, but it is a typical Holt part. The man whose work has a title to greatness is George Stone. As a junk man, he is superb. He runs away with the picture.

man who is able to display his emotion without giving the appearance of overacting, and Stone was able to do it. He furnishes the humor, the pathos, the utter fearlessness.

Genevieve Tobin and Sidney Blackmer have roles in the picture, also. Miss Tobin is Holt's wife who does a thorough job of two timing, and Blackmer lends her a hand. A tense situation is created when the two are trapped in a building which Blackmer had built of shoddy materials, and it caves in during the recent California earthquake. Holt returns and offers to rescue them, meaning to alfornia earthquake. Holt returns and offers to rescue them, meaning to allow the building to fall on them. Stone risks his life to urge him not to murder them. It is perhaps a little hard to believe that the junkman who hated the pair should be willing to make such a sacrifice to save them, but it's a dramatic moment, and one which can be enjoyed without going into the probability of it.

The Rialto management has also secured some good short subjects, a comedy, a musical, a newsregl and a trailer.

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

"The Wrecker," Feature | Dressler and Beery

"Make" Grand Feature At Rialto, Is Pleasing As is frequently the case in their pictures, Marie Dressler and Wallace ediocre picture which has something Beery are miles ahead of their material in "Tugboat Annie." As a re-terial in "Tugboat Annie." As a result this week's feature at Loew's Grand is virtually as good entertainment as "Min and Bill." which is fulsome praise for those who saw the latter film. As who didn't?

While the story this time is not conspicuously weak, it certainly leaves a little to be desired at poin's and in the hands of less talented minds than these two might be pretty dismal fare.

minds than these two might be pretty dismal fare.
"Tugboat Annie" is the hard-bitten captain of a sturdy tug. Her cross in life is an incompetent and boozing, though kindly, husband. Her pride is an only son. The son becomes master of a liner while friend husband continues his shiftless course from had to worse. The son rate from bad to worse. The son gets the father a job with the line which he serves, but papa gets boiled in premature celebration and engages in premature celebration and engages in maudlin dispute with the chief of the line. Angered by this climax to a long series of minor disgraces which have been heaped on his mother, the boy demands that she leave his father and let him support her. When she refuses he breaks with both of them. Misfortunes then pile up on Annie and her hopeless Terry and they hit bottom when Terry rams a ferryboat and they lose their tug. They are taken back on as crew to tow the city garbage barges. Then, in a genuinely thrilling climax they save their son's ship from disaster in a storm, towing in the larger craft only after towing in the larger craft only after Terry has been terribly burned by entering the firebox to plug some leaking steamlines. The close-up storm shots in these scenes are exceptionally good.

It can be seen that this structure is pretty flimsy and would be painfully transparent in less able hands. As it is there are moments which seem to border closely on the maudlin, but somehow the worst moments seen somehow convincing and the better moments are really powerful, thanks to those grand old troupers, Dressler and Beery. Maybe we are prejudiced in their favor. In fact, we know we are. And when we consider how they stand out as two monuments of they stand out as two monuments of human, and homely, character protray-al, in a vast Hollywood desert of pret-ty faces and insipid hamming we are proud to be prejudiced in their favor. A cartoon, Pitts and Todd comedy (we always are amazed at the number of persons who think these gals are funny), and newsreel complete the program. LEWIS HAWKINS.

Pitts and Summerville

In New Comedy at Fox Here's good news for lovers of real comedy in Atlanta! Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts are at the Fox then ter again in their latest co-starring vehicle, "Her First Mate," and ac cording to reports from the audience who viewed the picture last night at the public preview, this team has out done all previous efforts in making

The story presents Summerville and Miss Pitts as a young married couple living on the shore of Long Island Sound. The husband has convinced himself that his place in the world is that of a ship captain sailing the high seas, as his father did before him. The fun begins when his wife, in an effort to satisfy his longing for a ship of his own, secretly spends their entire savings to buy for him the little ferry boat which operates in their town, and for which Slim has always turned up his nose. The story presents Summerville and always turned up his nose.

Both Summerville and Pitts have been excellently cast, and the story, crammed with funny situations and good dialogue, lends itself well to the type of comedy which has made this type or comedy which has made this pair famous.

In addition, the Fox is offering this week a Universal novelty of exceptional merit in a short feature titled "The World's Greatest Thrills." titled "The World's Greatest Thrilis."
It deals with the adventures of cameramen, and vividly depicts several of the most thrilling episodes that have come to national attention in the past year.

On the same program there is being offered another of the well-known Morton Downey musical novelties that have lately become quite popular with audiences of all types.

Dietrich at Paramount

In 'The Song of Songs' Marlene Dietrich's newest picture, "The Song of Songs," opens at the Paramount theater today. Miss Dietrich gives her most interesting per-formance as the tragic heroine of Her-mann Sudermann's celebrated novel, from which the picture has been adapted. Directed by Rouben Mamoulain, the former New York stage director, Miss Dietrich gives a convincing answer to those Hollywood critics who feared those Hollywood critics who feared for her artistic expression under any other man than her discoverer, Josef Von Sternberg. Under the sympa-thetic and adroit handling of Mamou-lain, Miss Dietrich plays, for the first time in her life, the part of an in-nocent young girl, who gets buffeted about by life.

A beautifully produced picture,
"Song of Songs," curiously is one of

C. D. M'CORKLE HELD FOR KIDNAPING SON

C. D. McCorkle, former Atlanta attorney and court reporter, Friday was being held in jail at Sylvania, Ga., for DeKalb county on a charge of kidnaping his 11-year-old son from the home of his first wife in Decatur a year ago. Sheriff Jake Hall, of DeKalb, left at midnight Friday night to bring McCorkle back to Decatur.

The son was awarded to Mrs. McCorkle by Judge John Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit. DeKalb authorities traced McCorkle to Chicago recently, but lost the trail in that city, picking it up again at Sylvania, where his mother lives, Sheriff Hall said.

Aug. 11.—(P)—The third interstate folk music festival opened on Old White Top today in the midst of one of Mother Nature's thickest clouds which a chill wind drove in gusts across the top of the mile-high peak.

Approximately 800 mountaineers and folk musicians from as far away as Albemarle county were present for the contest, which began early in the morning.

The musicians, unknowingly, faced a battery of music critics from New York, Detroit, Chicago, Richmond, Nashville, Atlanta and St. Louis, which would have made most concert artists nervous. With pencils and notebooks they prenared criticism

"CAPTURED"

By PAUL LAWRENCE

CHAPTER I.

Through the slippery, wet mud, down the long road, trudged a line of disconsolate figures. Some staggering, some walking listlessly, all moving slowly, hopelessly, the line threaded its way, passing columns of grayclad German soldiers as they turned into the main gate of a German prison camp.

Suddenly from the head of the group came the shouted command in German. "Halt!" Wearily the men "Officers step out to the middle of the road!" Groups of men in vari-colored uniforms, French, Americans, Russians, British, left the main body Russians, British, left the main body and formed a separate group. Captain Frederic Allison, of the British army, looked about him at his immediate companions. There was Haversham, the young English officer, held upright only by Allison's supporting arm. There was Martin, a thin, dry cowhand whose Texas life had not been dimmed even by his army service. There was Guerand, impetuous Frenchman, and Strogin, a sullen, powerful Russian. why they do this? asked Guer-and. "Listen, brother," responded Mar-tin, "have you ever tried to run away and hold your pants at the same time?" held upright only by Allison's supporting arm. There was Martin, a thin, dry cowhand whose Texas life had not been dimmed even by his army service. There was Guerand, impetuous Frenchman, and Strogin, a sullen, powerful Russian. Others, too, joined them as they were ordered forward, through the rain, to the German prison camp. The commandant of the encampment strode out to the porch to survey the additions to his herd of unhappy humans. The men lined up before him, with young Haversham still being held in an upright position by Captain Allison. Suddenly Haversham stumbled and pitched to his knees with a moan. "What's the trouble," bellowed the guard. The prisoners helped the boy to his feet a position which he main.

"What's the trouble," bellowed the guard. The prisoners helped the boy to his feet, a position which he maintained with difficulty.

"Herr Kommandant," ealled Allison, "is it possible that this boy can get something to drink? He is very sick."

"Drink? Yah! White wine for everyone," sarcastically rejoined the guard, "Give all the prisoners a double ration of our 'white wine'—understand?"

Martin, the cowpuncher, involuntarily exclaimed, "White wine! Say, brother, I ask you—what kind of a prison camp is this!" Even the guard was taken aback by the command—then he too understood.

"Forward march," came the command—then he too understood.
"Forward march," came the command. As the prisoners moved away the commandant stopped Allison; he ing torrent a white fluid poured down on them, filling the room with its terrible odor.

"It's the delouser," cried Martin, "look out for your eyes."

Haversham flinched in horror; the hateful fluid had gotten into his eyes. Strogin again laughed crazily. Allison stood, looking at the commandaut, calmly and with a trace of resentment.

mandaut, calmly and with a trace of resentment.

Led by guards, the men, dripping wet, filed into a long bare room, lit by one glaring electric light. The guards indicated to the new prisoners some straw mattresses flung on the floor, "These are the beds." As the men prepared to toss themselves down on these thin pallets, a cockney voice rang out through the room, "More bleedin' flesh! . . No room 'ere! . . Tike 'em some other plice! . . . We cahn't breathe now, blast ya! . . . We're human bein's! . . . Tike 'em some other plice."

Haversham looked around with growing horror. The squalid surroundings promised him no very happy evistence. Suddenly his glance fell on a pistol in the guard's holresentment.

said quietly.

Like an arguing echo, came the shrill scream of the Cockney, "Go saw the decoration on his chest. "You have received the Victoria Cross." The Englishman merely returned the German's look. "We are honored," continued the commandant with mock deference. Allison remained stiffly at attention, then wheeled and followed his companions.

On! . . . Let 'em 'ave it! Let 'em 'ave it! Let 'em 'ave it!..."

Quivering with emotion, Haver-sham held the gun against his own heart. "Please mother, forgive meforgive me," he mumbled. "Wait—!" cried Allison.

Like so many cattle, the men were herded into a long low building. Inside, the walls and floor were wet. Overhead, rusty pipes hung in a shower-like arrangement. As the men lined up, guards went the lengths of the row cutting off all the buttons from the clothes, and forcing the men to grab their garments to keep them from falling off.

"Why they do this?" asked Guerand.

"Listen, brother," responded Mar-

In a twinkling of an eye, the prison-ers swarmed over the bodies, taking their gams, and running in a mad race for the walls—and liberty!

Powerful searchlights picked out Powerful searchlights picked out the fleeing figures against the dark-er background. Machine guns moun-ted on the walls sprayed them with death-dealing bullets. Some of the fugitives, tangled in barbed wire, were struck by the rain of lead; none got away.

Inside the bunk-house, Allison stood thoughtfully over the body of young Haversham. Martin, turning from the window from which he had been watching the abortive attempt to escape looked at the Englishman, and said, "Wa"ll, gentlemen—all I got to say is Sherman sure was right.

The hopeless, endless weeks passed slowly. Allison tried to keep the men cheerful, but even he became, men cheerful, but even he became, at times, despondent. On these moments he would reach under his pillow, and bring out a worn, fingermarked sheet of paper. Now as he again read that letter the irrepressible Martin was the first to pipe up with. "I'll lay you ten good American bucks to a plugged shillin', Captain, that yuh could recite that letter hackwards.

tain, that yuh could recite that letter backwards.

Allison looked at him. "You win, Texas... But I... I still like to read it." His eyes fell to the paper:

"Please, please do not be hurt if I tell you that I have almost forgotten what you really look like. I know you so little.... How long was it? Six days. Six short days and I haven't seen you for two long years. Your letters are so full of cheer that I am ashamed to write to you this way.

Allison's thoughts unconsciously soared back to his last few moments in England. Leaning from a compartment window, he was looking down into the anxious face of Monica, his wife of but a few days. It was hard to leave; they both felt it. Allison was trying his best to relieve the tension by being as light-hearted as possible.

In the parlance of the theater, the protean actor is one who takes several parts in the same play. If he be a first rate performer he lives and breathes each part so perfectly that the audience forgets he is acting. If perchance that audience remembers for a split second, that he is a play-er, his acting is a failure. This, then, is the test of his art and of his real ability to make it live and breathe: that he should forget himself and make his audience forget him. I wonder it Life doesn't make protean actors of us all, from the cradle to the grave:

In childhood the play-acting be-

To his wife he will always be something of the play-loving fun-making boy; but to his children he is the personification of all that is dignified and dutiful and exalted.

once upon a time there was a young and beautiful girl. She was much sought after and, when quite young, she became engaged to a prosperous young man. Then on to her stage came another man with a brilliant mind. He allured her with it and she became his wife. He never treated her too well. He was unfaithful and she knew it. She chose to ignore it. But the years passed, bitter years, and he was stricken with an incurable disease. For many months he had lain in the hospital waiting for a merelful release from his suffering. She had nursed him like a Florence Nightingale and of a visitor, a friend of her youth, she asked this poignant, and pltiful question: "Could any one be so bad as to deserve an end like

A Well Bid Grand Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON. World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Probably one of the best examples I have yet seen of the value of the Four-Five No-trump Convention in reaching Grand Slam contracts occurred in a recent championship tourna-ment. Although the hand in ques-tion was an absolute spread for about tion was an absolute spread for about 15 tricks, most of the teams playing it failed to reach the contract of seven-odd due to their inability to locate all of the key cards—that is, all four Aces and the King of trumps. Through the use of the Four-Five Notrump Convention the North player, holding but a little over 3 honortricks, was able to jump from four no-trump to a Grand Slam.

one-spade call, he knows a Stain is probably in sight. His three Aces loom very large, and there is no better way for South to tell his partner that he holds them than by bidding four no-trump.

3—North gets the message perfectly. A four-no-trump bid affirms the possession of either two Aces and the King of a bid suit or trace Aces. Since North himself has both the King of spades, he immediately knows that South has the three Aces. In addition, he knows that South in order to bid one spade must have either five to the Queen or, at the very worst, five to the Knave. Therefore, North can be certain that even with the worst possible holding in the South hand, a break in trumps will assure the slam; but it is more than probable that South has the Queen or, spades or a six-card suit, in which case the Slam will be an absolute and trumps will assure the slam; but it is more than probable that South has the Queen or, at the very worst, five to the Knave, Therefore, North can be certain that even with the worst possible holding in the South hand, a break in trumps will assure the slam; but it is more than probable that South has the Queen of the Four No-trump Convention, it is not even close and was made without the use of the Four No-trump Convention, it is not even close and was made without tricks, five trump tricks and two outside Aces with only the bare possibility of a trump loser.

Although this Grand Slam can possibly be reached without the use of the Four No-trump Convention, it is most difficult. If South is unable to show his Aces wholesale, North will never be able to contract for the formal shape will be not strong his bidding may be will bear the King of a proper and the proper in the propertion of the firm of the propertion of the firm of the propertion of probably in sight. In turn that woman has been a reigning belle, a happy bride, a disillusioned wife, a bitter, middle aged woman and now another part, the grimmest and the most gruesome of all. She is a professional nurse for a dying man. Youth and beauty are gone, love and romance are dead. Yet, hear this. She feels a duty to her husband as a suffering, dying, human and she will go through with it to the end. All the other emotions are gone, but pity and duty remain. She has played her successive parts with such fidelity and such finesse that her audience has continually applauded her. She has now changed her cost tume and come onto the stage for her final part in this play; in this tragedy.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(P)—Stop loss selling and acute shrinkage of speculative buying plunged grain prices downward today, wheat and oats to the extreme limits permitted in one day.

Wheat closed limp, at the day's bottom level, 5 cents under the average of yesterday's closing quotations, age of yesterday's closing a showing 7 to corn 1 7-8 to 2 1-2 down, oats 2 1-4 to 2 7-8 off, provisions showing 7 to 12 cents decline.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, notwithstanding small yields indicated by the government crop report. Rural offerings both of wheat and corn were offerings of the larger.

Provisions more than lost early gains and toward the last reflected the downward course of cereals.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(P)—Narrow fluctuations marked trading on the curb exchange today. Irregular strength in the forenoon was largely dispelled in mild scattered selling that made its appearance around midday. Prices quietly backed and filled in the afternoon to telose narrowly irregular.

the afternoon to telose narrowly irregular.

Isolated firm spots were evident in Parker Rust Proof and Schenley Distillers, both up more than 2 points at the finish. Losses of equal proportions occurred in Dow Chemical and General Tire & Rubber. Aluminum Company of America cancelled a 4-point advance to show a fractional loss.

Brokers' Views

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER—
The market atill appears in an ascending trading range. Barring the influence of week-end week, we anticipate a further rally from Priday's lows in Monday's market, and look for a better than average performance in aicobol, motor and motor accessory and railroad issues.

Accessory and railroad issues.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We remain of the opinion that the outlook over the next month or two warrants higher prices, but until the market has something tangible to work with in the way of better trade news, improvement is likely to be hesitant.

BERE & CO.—If nothing occurs over the extended weekend to interfere with the ordinary technical forces, we should expect the next general movement of the market to be on the constructive side.

COURTS & CO.—The NRA campaign is going vigorously forward and before long we will be able to find out its practical effect. The market is availing itself of the mid-summer season to get over its excitable state in June and July.

DOBBS & CO.—We constituted.

DOBBS & CO.—We oppose a policy of delaying purchases for permanent investment in the belief that when the rise does come its extent will justify the possible moderate extra cost of accumulating at present levels rather than risking the possibility of being caught in a scramble for stocks.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER—Cotton appears to have broken away from the influence of other markets and should hereafter follow a more normal course. We look for declining prices, owing to the absence of stimulating developments tending to encourage the speculative public to assume the weight of increasing hedge sales.

aume the weight of increasing hedge sales.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The ring crowd are bearish almost to a man, and it must be admitted for the time being the outlook is not any too bright, but one thing that is completely overlooked is that the gold value of the dollar is 25 per cent less than this time last year and that present prices based on the gold dollar represent only about 7 cents. We do not believe this price will be considered a fair return to the farmer, and drastic action to improve it will no doubt come from Washington if no other relief is provided.

BEER & CO.—Lower prices are probable unless the market receives better support; however, we believe the incentive for such support will be forthcoming and therefore advise avoidance of the short side of the market and favor buying cotton on any further declines.

COURTS & CO.—The market may sell off a little further Saturday, but we believe it will be taken up on the current decline and will go to higher levels within the next day or so. DOBBS & CO.—We would prefer to buy on the scale down on the theory that the crop is still far from made and that there is every possibility of hearing of crop deterioration at any time now. particular, news that the weevil is becoming active.

GRAIN OPINIONS.
FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER—
There is a disposition on the part of holders to liquidate their holdings of wheat. This has had an unsettling effect on the market. However, in view of the extreme shortage of all grains shown in the government report, we believe these basic conditions should ultimately bring about a better level of prices.

LIVINGSTON & OO.—It is believed considerable of Friday's selling was due to the belief the board of trade would give the three-day notice that the minimum prices would be removed on August 15, and should there be any announcement that there was no likelihood of these being removed for some time, we believe much of there was no likelihood of these being re-moved for some time, we believe much of the grain sold Friday would be replaced.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—(4°)—

The cotton market developed a decided downward tendency today due to poor Liverpool cables, considerable hedge selling and decided weakness in stocks and wheat. Trading was rather active and the close was near the lows, 40 to 42 points net lower.

The market opened easier as Liverpool cables came in considerably lower than due. Manchester said there was small inquiry for cloths but yarns were quiet. In early trading October declined to 9.58.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 13 to 14 penny points down.

COTTON MILL ACTIVITY IN U. S. IS AT PEAK

IN U. S. IS AT PEAK

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(P)—Domestic cotton mill activity in July was the highest on record for that month, the New York Cotton Exchange service announced today.

During the period cotton mills ran at 117 per cent of the 1922-1927 average rate against 54 per cent in July last year. The previous high record rate for July was 110 per cent in 1927.

"The explanation generally given for the very high rate of cotton mill activity," says the service, "is that wholesalers, retailers and consumers, seeing cotton prices rising following the bank holiday, and feeling assured that the bottom had been reached and higher prices inevitable with inflation, the processing tax and higher labor costs in the offing, purchased all kinds of cotton goods freely to replenish stocks."

CUBS DEFEAT PIRATES, TAKE SECOND PLACE

Expert Pitching of Guy Bush Accounts for 8-2 Victory.

PITTSBURGLI, Aug. 11.—(P)— The Chicago Cubs climbed over the almost helpless forms of Pittsburgh's Pirates into second place in the Na-tional league today, winning the be-lated opener of their important se-ries. 8 to 2, behind the expert hurling of Guy Bush.

Bush pitched shutout ball up to the final inning, failing to apply the whitewash only because Gus Suhr walloped a home run into the right-field stands with Pie Traynor aboard. The Cubs disposed of Larry French in five innings, driving him to cover with a five-run outburst.

The Cubs had things all their own way from the time Woody English opened the game with a double, reached third on Billy Herman's single and scored when Kiki Cuyler forced Herman.

They coasted along on this lead until the fifth. Then Manager Charley Grimm started the trouble with a base hit. Bill Jurges' double advanced him to third and Bush followed with a single for the first run of the inning. Herman drove in another with a single and French retired in favor of Waite Hoyt. After Cuyler fanned, Babe Herman smacked a hit to center that scored Bush and the two Hermans took third and second on the throw took third and second on the throw in. Hoyt then let loose a wild pitch and both romped home.

Leon Chagnon followed Hoyt to the hill and was found for two more runs in the eighth on a double by Babe Herman, a triple by Riggs Stephenson and Grimm's liner.

The Babe, and Tony Piet, of Pitts-burgh, led the slugging, each with a double and two singles.

MISS VAN WIE

OAK PARK, Ill., Aug. 11.—(UP) Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, national women's champion, and Miss Lucille Robinson, of Des Moines, Iowa, champion of Iowa, advanced to the final 36-hole match for the women's western golf title today, each by vanquishing a Californian.

Miss Van Wie, favorite to win the championship, played consistently to eliminate Miss Elizabeth Abbott, of Los Angeles, 6 and 5. She shot a 38, two under par, going out to stand 4 up over her competitor.

On the final nine the winner took three of the four holes played. Miss Abbott won the 11th when her opponent overshot the green. It was her second hole of the match. When she three-putted the 13th, the game was over. The victor finished even par for the 13 holes.

In the other semi-final, Miss Robinson won from Mrs. Gregory Lifus, another Los Angeles competitor, 2 up. The Iowan failed to show her usual form on the starting nine and was 1 down at the turn. She squared the match on the 11th, however, and went 1 up with a par 5 on the long 12th hole. Mrs. Lifus evened it up with a birdie 2 on the 13th, but went into a trap to lose the 14th hole. The winner made it 2 up with her birdie four on the final hole.

The Cracker Owners Are Still Leading With Their Chins

The hearse may be waiting just outside the gate for the Cracker body, but the owners of the aforesaid body still hope to pump some life into the object—a bit of resuscitation.

The victory put Chicago a half-game up on the Bucs and 3 1-2 behind the New York Giants, who had an club that isn't one of the first four doesn't figure in the money. It may as well be fifth or eighth.

The Cracker owners, having given until it hurts, are prepared to give some more. There is this to say for the owners. They have had their chins out all summer and today finds them still out there-taking the

The last month of the season permits some changes in personnel. There are a few players on the Cracker club who have been drawing pay checks under false pretenses all season. They haven't given Charley Moore a break, nor have they earned their pay. They have been slow of foot, unenthusiastic as to winning and seemingly without regard for the team's success. At least this has been their attitude.

Pitching is 75 per cent of any winning team. A real pitching staff and about two good hitters will put any club up in the race. The Crackers had two pitchers who waited until they got jobs elsewhere before they began to pitch winning ball. There are a lot of answers claimed for that. I think I know the correct one. But the Cracker pitchers have never been consistentat winning.

There aren't two good hitters on the club. Oh, I know there are a few good averages. But percentage hitters never got a club anywhere. There isn't a real hitter on the ball club who is up there busting the ball.

The owners are willing. All they want is to be shown what

"WHAT WRONG WITH A SUNDAY GAME?"

Mayor James L. Key, who had issued a permit for a Sun-day baseball game, rather expected the injunction taken by zealots which prevents the game.

"I still am unable to see, as is a majority of our people, anything wrong with an innocent baseball game played on Sunday afternoon," he said yesterday. "I think, though, it will be of great help to those wanting Sunday baseball when the issue comes to a vote. It cannot be that the people of Atlanta are more likely to be harmed than those in any other city where Sunday baseball is played. Sunday baseball is played in every city of any size, where organized baseball exists, in the United States except Atlanta. Chattanooga, Nashville, Knoxville and all cities in the Southern association have enjoyed the Sunday games for years without finding them objectionable or contributory to law violations or the decline of their people. Rather, the effect has been salutary.

The issue isn't important. Sunday baseball will come in due time. It is merely unfortunate that it should be made a religious issue, which it isn't.

COLONEL TIL HUSTON ARRIVES

Colonel Tillinghast L'Hommedieu Huston, Cracker director, will arrive this morning. The colonel is one of the best baseball men in the game. His advice is worth bending in an attentive ear to hear.

The colonel, who is a grand character, lived in Havana during the years after Cuba won her freedom. He had, along with other American club members, served nerican troops. All the members were fellows and it was quite a club.

There is quite a story about a meeting at which it was decided to buy new furniture. Colonel Huston headed a committee to dispose of the old furniture.

The committee disposed of the furniture immediately. They threw it out the windows.

Had Chattanooga been presented with those ball games they would not now be down there keeping company with the Crackers.

Masculine spectators at next tuesday night's wrestling program at the ball park are advised to wear chin straps attached to any straw hats they might be wearing.

This is particularly advisable if the wearer is planning to be at the ringside. For Chief Chewchki, the Indian chief, is coming back to Atlanta.

THOSE SENATORS MOVE UP.

Joe Cronin, the boy wonder at Washington, helped his club another half game up the road toward Pennantville yesterday, winning as the Yanks were idle.

Meanwhile comes word that Marse Joe has given the Yankees a good, old-fashioned going over about their performances, charging them with not putting out their best efforts and that sort of thing.

Marse Joe even threatens to go about breaking up the Yankees if they do not start overhauling the Senators. And no ball player, who has played with the Yankees, wants to play anywhere else, if he can prevent it. The Yankees travel, eat and live as no other ball club. And losing out with the Yankees and going to some other major league outfit is like going to the minors.

GEHRIG JEALOUS OF BABE?

It's an interesting story which Lou Gehrig has in a weekly magazine now on the stands. He's asked the question if he's jealous of Babe Ruth. He isn't. He and the Babe got together on that long ago.

"Young fellow," said the Babe to Lou, "you and I want to make money. The money is over behind those fences," he said, pointing to the baseball park fences. "Let's get it."

And Lou Gehrig, just a little past 30 years of age, is able to say, "The depression didn't hurt me. I'm fixed for life."

THE PERFECT MAN.

Tarzan Lackey, the Tech football player, has entered the 'Mr. Atlanta" contest at the fair grounds tonight. I recall that on the S. S. Virginia coming home last winter that Mr. Lackey was the leading man on the ship and abroad. He should do well. Mr. Atlanta should be just a breeze after Mr. S. S. Virginia, Mr. Panama City and Mr. Havana.

The Round-Cruickshank match was the only tense singles battle of the day. Both women were seeded first in their respective groups, and Miss Round is ranked No. 2 in England, while Miss Cruickshank is No. 5 in American tennis, making a perfect setting. The ensuing match fit well in this picture.

Miss Round, meeting the ball squarely with every stroke, kept the American racing back and forth across the wet turf court.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The hero of this year's victorious

British Davis cup team, slender, 24-year-old Frederick J. Perry, thinks he was "just a bit lucky" in the international tennis matches at Paris, believes the American forces were under-trained for a battle on difficult grounds and that Ellsworth Vines was "a game fellow but men-

"No one who has not gone through the Davis cup play, especially a challenge round, can have the slightest idea of the mental strain involved," said Perry today, upon his arrival with three other English players for a series of American engagements, including the national championship at Forest Hills next month.

CHARLEY GRIMM TO DIRECT CLUB FROM DUGOUT

Cubs Purchase Coast League First Sacker. Reports Sunday.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(#)—Charley Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, National league champions of 1932, from now on probably will direct the club from the bench.

The Cubs today purchased Adolph Camilli, first-baseman with the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, for a reported $25,000. He was ordered to report to Manager Grimm, whose place he probably will take, on Sunday. The team leaves on its final, long eastern invasion on Monday.

Monday.

Announcement of Camilli's acquisition was made at Pittsburgh by President William L. Veeck, of the Cubs. Camilli, who throws and bats from the left side of the plate, was until a week ago among the leading batters of the Pacific Coast league, and although in a temporary slump, still is over the .300 mark. That is far better than Grimm's average.

Associated Press Sports Writer. BLUE MOUND CLUB, MILWAU BLUE MOUND CLUB, MILWAU-KEE, Aug. 11.—(P)—Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell marched into the semi-finals of the national professional golf championship with impressive victories today but a pair of comparative unknowns to big time competition dealt upsets that stole the show.

Sarazen recognized his magical putting touch in the afternoon to breeze into the semi-finals with an easy 6-to-5 conquest over Ed Dudley, shis Ryder cup mate from Wilmington, Del., and Farrell vanquished the stubborn Johnny Golden, of Noroton, Conn., 4 and 3.

Jimmy Hines, of New York, and 4 and 3.

Jimmy Hines, of New York, and Willie Goggin, professional of San Francisco municipal course, staggered such noted shotmakers as Tom Creavy. of Albany, N. Y., the 1931 champion, and Paul Runyan, heavy money winner of last winter's golfing gold rush, with crushing defeats.

PRIZE SHOTS.

The two upset artists didn't give their more famous and favored rivals a chance as they stormed over the Blue Mound layout with prize shots. Hines, who first gained attention by tying Mortie Dutra, of Detroit, for the qualifying medal, eliminated Creavy, 4 and 3; Goggin routed Runyan, 6-5 and 5.

Fate of the draw will stop one of them tomorrow, however, as they clash in the semi-finals of the upper bracket while Sarazen, a one-two-three favorite in wagering around the clubhouse, meets Farrell, who looks like his old self for the first time since he beat Jones in the national open playoff at Olympia fields in 1928.

Sarazen led Dudley all the way as he toured the required 31 holes four shots under par. Shooting perfect golf on the front morning nine, he sailed to a two up lead over Dudley as the big fellow from Wilmington missed his approach shots, and increased his advantage to three at lunch time with a medal card of 71, one over par, to Dudley's 75.

Dissatisfied with his putting, Gene first decided to change putters at noon, but changed his mind. His putter delivered in brilliant fashion in the afternoon. Dudley, matching him hole for hole with a fast 32, 3 under par, on the first nine of the afternoon, collapsed suddenly on the final homeward stretch and Gene broke par with one of his typical finishes to win the 28th, 29th and 30th holes. He ended the struggle with a half on the 31st.

THREE STYMIES.

Dudley laid him three dead stymies on the front afternoon nine, or Gene probably would have ended with a still greater margin.

Farrell wound up his morning round 1 up by breaking the deadlock on the 17th hole. After halving the cial, feature of the fourth day of the T. Clarence Marshall blue ribbon trapshooting classic.

Troeh's perfect score was one target better than the record of 174 established last year by Earle F. Woodward, of Houston, Texas.

Arthur Cascaden, Tampa, Fla., professional, turned in second high score—172 breaks—but was ineligible for the trophies.

Joseph F. Hiestand, the new world's amateur champion at 500 targets, and John D. Rake, of Monroe, N. Y., tied at 171 breaks each to tie for the amateur runner-up honors.

still greater margin.
Farrell wound up his morning round 1 up by breaking the deadlock on the 17th hole. After halving the 19th with par 4s, Johnny drew away to win the next three holes and soar 4 up, a margin he increased by winning the 27th with a birdie, manufactured by a great approach. Golden didn't have a chance thereafter, Farrell tying him hole for hole with 1 under par golf.

Coggin, a powerful hitter off the tee and a "Dead-Eye Dick" with his irons, rushed Runyan off his feet by winning the first three holes of the morning with a par and two successions.

was won on the 28th, which he played Runyan even.

Hines' victory over Creavy wasn't so spectacular but almost as easy. As Creavy stumbled along in the rough and yawning traps, Hines, accustomed to playing against a heavy wind that ripped across the course in the morning, lashed out prodigious tee shots and led from start to finish. A seven-foot putt for a birdie 3 cn the 325-yard 2d started his march. He was 2 up through the first nine and 4 up after the initial 18.
